Art Unit: 3727

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1 - 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Day, et. al.

in view of Nelson.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have employed the rigid insert teaching set forth in Nelson in the construction of the device of Day, et. al, motivated by the accurate fit achieved thereby. The particular shape claimed would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, motivated by the accepted shape of a laboratory splash pan and the intended use. To have employed a liner that lined the reservoir and a closure therefor would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, motivated by the intended use.

3. The references to Moyers and Boehlert have been cited to further show related structure.
